POLITICAL STRAWS SHOW WHO IS BLOWING

The public have very little idea, and Samuel Connor, "of the care and licitude given by the councilors of Pammany Hall to the political creation men who will make clean and unisst appears to be a nominee of sponneous shoice is really a man who has been groomed and advised and watched by years.

"What suggests this," continued Conpor, as he seated himself in a big easy chair in his Waldorf apartments, "is the way they are keeping their eyes on Judge Foster. You may recall that a great many peoplpe could not find it in their thinking to take Foster seriously and there were plenty who were willing to wager their money that he would run behind the ticket when he bench he has developed amazingly.

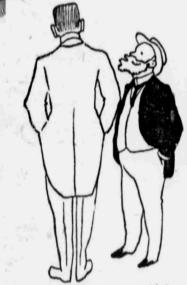

'In addition to making a fair, well ounded Judge he has extended his quaintance to an unusual degree for man who has the demands on his time that a Judge of General Sessions brick Wigwam on Fourteenth street other leaders of Tammany Hall who are putting him in the form class. His erm expires in 1913, eight years from now, and if he continues to develop Board, and as such has to handle a the he has he will undoubtedly be heard from."

Schmittberger in the Tenderloth. One of the party was very pronounced in his remarks, and they weren't so awfully nice, either. After awhile a tall, bulky man who had been dissocting a sandwhoth and a glass of milk and who had been sitting at the table behind the politicians got up and went out, and one of the party said to the men who was so pronounced in his remarks:

"I guess that man didn't like what you said about Schmittberger."

"I don't care." was the breezy reply.

"Who was Schmittberger," the man replied, and everybody lyughed except the man who had been talking. was his daughter Florence, five nthe old, who lay dead. Finally, on Saturday last he was compelled to call an an undertaker to bury the child. Every moment during the week of prayer Baker and his fellow believers expected to see the spirit of life remoter the form of their beloved dead.
